Introduction

- A data-driven analysis of the AtliQ Hotel Group's performance across four major Indian cities
- Evaluation of revenue, occupancy, and guest ratings for seven unique property types
- This report provides a comprehensive analysis of the performance metrics for AtliQ properties during the June and July periods

Problem Statement

- Inconsistent revenue generation across different property categories, specifically between luxury and business segments.

- The need to identify which booking platforms are underperforming or over-performing to optimize marketing spend

Objectives

Primary Objective

- To identify the highest revenue generating properties and understand the factors contributing to their success

Secondary Objectives

- To analyze the impact of different booking platforms on total revenue and booking volume
- To provide data-driven recommendations for improving the average ratings of underperforming properties

Executive Summary

- AtliQ Exotica emerged as the top revenue contributor in June, generating ₹15,70,350 and accounting for over 31% of total revenue

- Digital platforms, particularly "MakeYourTrip," proved highly effective, contributing significantly to weekly revenue targets for properties like AtliQ Grands

Methodology

- Quantitative analysis of internal booking logs (fact_bookings) to calculate total revenue and booking frequencies

- Statistical aggregation of customer feedback scores to determine average ratings per property on a monthly and weekly basis.

Raw Data & Analysis
